

and Detective James Hart were ordered arrested by Assistant Chief Schuettler and Lieut. Byrnes of the Cottage Grove avenue station was instructed to swear out warrants charging them with assault with a deadly weapon and disturbance, respectively. Both men were released on bonds.

Cleghorn and his partner explained that the shot, which penetrated Nielson's wrist, was fired to frighten negroes who threatened them. A bystander said the detectives were intoxicated, and Nielson had attempted to quiet them.

Cleghorn and Hart are attached to the central detective bureau, and Nielson is station at the Cottage Grove station.

WAGE INCREASE TO BE DEMANDED BY MINERS

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 15.—Wage increases from coal operators of the South, East and Middle West will be demanded by the United Mine Workers of America meeting here in annual convention tomorrow. Delegates arriving here today were practically unanimous in asserting their dissatisfaction with wage conditions in these sections. They expressed a belief that the operators would agree to better the wages and that there was no danger of a strike.

The miners are expected to have their demands formulated by Jan. 25, at which time sessions of the wage conference between the coal operators and representatives of the miners' organization are scheduled to begin.

FEAR LYNCHING AFTER CRIMINAL ASSAULT

Delmar, Del., Jan. 15.—Cowering in a cell in the little jail here, captured only after a thrilling chase over the ice-covered river, George Linton, 20, charged with criminal assault upon Mrs. J. T. Weaver, is being guarded by a cordon of armed deputies to prevent a lynching.

Linton tried to escape from pursuers on the ice. A storm had obliterated the trail. Bloodhounds could not take up the scent. Detectives, and others, however, on skates and in ice pachts, took up the chase. Linton was also skating. He was overhauled when close to shore. For more than an hour he had kept ahead of his pursuers.

After Linton's capture, several of the more hot-headed of his pursuers were in favor of immediate lynching, but the calmer counsel of older residents and officers of the town prevailed. Deputies were sworn in, and Linton was brought to the local jail.

The feeling is most bitter against him, as Mrs. Weaver was a bride of only a few months, and was assaulted while her husband was absent at the oyster fields. It was stated, however, that she will probably recover.

Good manners are the artifices which we substitute for the decent naturalness of life.
